A NOTE FROM THE ARTISTIC DIRECTOR

"In these dangerous times, where it seems the world is ripping apart at the seams, we can all learn how to survive from those who stare death squarely in the face every day and [we] should reach out to each other and bond as a community, rather than hide from the terrors of life at the end of the millennium."

Jonathan Larson wrote these words shortly before he tragically passed away (at the age of 35) from an aortic aneurysm on the morning of the RENT's first preview performance (January 25, 1996.)

Fast forward over a quarter of a century later and RENT's exploration of disease, death, debt, and eviction intersect yet again in a way that keenly echoes Jonathan Larson's lyric: "How do you document real life / When real life's getting more / Like fiction each day …"

Inspired by Puccini's opera "La Bohème," RENT focuses on a group of Bohemian friends who grapple with disease, addiction, identity (sexual/gender/racial/socioeconomic), and yearning to leave a meaningful legacy. Its message about the vital need for community, and creating a world where everyone is free to be who they are, continues to be as essential today as it was when it was written. This message is also at the core of Vanguard's mission. Vanguard was created to provide a safe space for artists from all backgrounds to be themselves unapologetically; a space for artists to use their talents to ignite conversations and bring about change to the world we live in.

Another hallmark of Vanguard is finding kinships with non-arts organizations to amplify our collective missions and propel social justice. With this production we're thrilled to be partnering with: Montclair History Center, which aligns with Vanguard's dedication to share stories – and history – to educate and create a sense of community for all individuals; Hudson Pride Center, which provides gender affirming services and resources, as well as HIV awareness and preventative services; the Hyacinth AIDS Foundation, whose mission is to help people live with HIV, stop the spread of the epidemic, and serve as a critical voice in the public debate surrounding HIV in New Jersey; and Broadway House in Newark, New Jersey's only specialized care facility for people living with HIV/AIDS.

A central theme of RENT is living with (and dying from) HIV/AIDS; four of our central characters are battling with this disease. During the height of the HIV/AIDS epidemic of the 80's and 90's, marginalized communities were disproportionately affected, in particular men, women and transgender people of color. The impact of oppression and discrimination — whether measured by poverty, access to health care, substance abuse, or mental health — paved the way for this inequity.

COVID-19's journey hasn't been much different. Like HIV, it has disproportionately impacted vulnerable communities, including the Black community, Latinx communities, LGBTQ communities, as well as immigrant and low-income communities in particular.

Although set at "the end of the millennium," RENT's themes of love, loss, battling inequities, and the value of true community, bridge the generations that have passed since it was written. Its focus on identity is as timely today as it was in the 1980s, and is achingly critical as we continue to struggle to embrace true diversity and acceptance.

I couldn't have thought of a more well-aligned piece to round out the first full season in our new home. So much has happened since we opened our doors in June 2021. This has been an amazing first season at Vanguard Theater, of thought-provoking productions, and meaningful collaborations with non-profit partners that have brought a multitude of community conversations.

As a Theater Director, her New York productions of Everything is Fine Until It's Not, and A Portrait of Ray, have won numerous awards and critical acclaim. Her production of Showtime with Shakespeare premiered at George Street Playhouse and NJPAC, followed by two successful national tours. Janeece is the founding Artistic Director of Vanguard Theater Company, based in Montclair, NJ. In addition to VTC's theatrical season offerings, their robust educational programming equips the younger generation with the tools to be professional performers as well as gatekeepers within the industry. Signature programs such as: Broadway Buddy pairs Broadway artists with mentees who are aspiring to a professional career in the industry; VTC Next trains and mentors a diverse group of up-and-coming "theater-gatekeepers" (writers, producers, directors, choreographers, stage managers, etc.); and DreamVTC teaches the importance of artist activism alongside performance skills. Janeece has cultivated and produced video media revolving around the "Origins of Blackface Minstrelsy"; she has presented TEDx talks centered on Social Justice, Diversity and Inclusion; and has created theatrical curriculum for institutions such as New Jersey Performing Arts Center and Young Audiences Arts for Learning.

WHO'S WHO

Janeece received her bachelor's degree from the University of Michigan and her master's from Rider University. She serves on the board of directors for the NJ Theater Alliance and is the special advisor for Seton Hall University's Arts Council.

As an actor, Janeece has appeared on Broadway, off-Broadway, national tours, television, film, commercials, and voiceovers. Janeece resides in South Orange, NJ and is married to Broadway Actor, Dwayne Clark, with whom she shares two children: Jada & DJ.

Jessica Sporn (Managing Director) is proud to support Vanguard's mission. Jessica joined Vanguard after seeing the impact it had on her younger daughter, who participated in Vanguard's first Broadway Buddy program in 2016. Jessica's theater background includes being a drama student at the "Fame" school, Performing Arts High School (class of '76). After several years of performing with the Frank Hatchett Dancers under the direction of Frank Hatchett and Maurice Hines, teaching jazz at Broadway Dance Center, and performing in industrials and cabarets, in 1980, Jessica became passionate about pro-choice politics, and joined, and became the co-chair of New York's social justice group CARASA (Committee for Abortion Rights and Against Sterilization Abuse). Deciding to fuse her love of performing with the practice of law, she graduated magna cum laude from Rutgers School of Law (class of '85), where she was on the Editorial Boards of the Computer & Technology Law Journal, and Women's Rights Law Reporter. She practiced law for six years at Cleary, Gottlieb, Steen & Hamilton, where she litigated and won a case that became a basis for the landmark decision, Braschi v. Stahl Assocs. Co. (the surviving partner of a same-sex relationship counted as "family" under New York law and was thus able to continue living in a rent controlled apartment belonging to the deceased partner). After her first daughter was born, Jessica stopped practicing law full-time and rediscovered a childhood passion for painting and art. She became an accomplished visual artist, designing greeting cards for Hallmark and Recycled Paper Greetings, and Judaica products, some of which were featured in the Jewish Museum and Metropolitan Museum of Art. In 1991, she joined Gas Lamp Players in Glen Ridge, NJ, which she incorporated as a not for profit in 2007, and helped grow to a robust, year-round theater company. Jessica has developed a strong reputation as an artist-activist, creating a legacy of excellence and community involvement through theater, developing educational and scholarship programs, and creating community partnerships around many social issues. She is proud to have designed the artwork for Lin-Manuel Miranda's "Love is Love" campaign for Broadway Cares/Equity Fights Aids after the Orlando shooting in June 2016, and for Miranda's campaign to assist Puerto Rico after Hurricane Maria devastated the island. She and husband Fred Cordero (the wind beneath her wings) have invested in several Broadway or Broadway-bound shows, and believe in the importance of telling untold stories and supporting unheard voices. Shoot for the moon; you might land among the stars.
